Hello Netribution Members,

I am currently working on a new and innovative resource and network called: FilmingFolk, and was wondering if you could let your members know all about it.

We are bursting at the seams with information, resources such as our Guide To Making Movies, Actors Resources and Forum, Script Café (where you can get help with all your screenplay worries), Script depository (a screenplay registry for all those copyright issues), a database of over a thousand contact details of industry professionals, two weekly newsletters offering you the chance to send in your comments and needs for any projects you are working and the all important Weekly Production Report Newsletter: Straight from our network of industry contacts and spies, we detail who is doing what, where and when direct to your In-Box. Whether you are an actor, crew, director, producer or writer, we pass on vital information of television and films that are in production that week. Invaluable if you want to get ahead in the business.

With a launch date imminent (we are looking at 1st of September 2006) it's important to register your interest to beat the crowd.

If any of your member would like to know more about us it's easy just contact me at Filmingfolk@aol.com and I'll put you onto our mailing list and tell you when you will be able to see a sample of the site, and how to join.

Looking forward to hearing from you.
