Filming has begun on political thriller WMD. Award winning writer and director David Holroyd makes his feature film debut based on his own screenplay. Written after extensive research and compiled from surveillance footage, CCTV cameras and home videos, WMD pieces together the as yet unknown story of Alex Morgan, the MI6 desk officer who uncovered critical inaccuracies in the evidence being used by politicians to justify the imminent invasion of Iraq and attempted to expose the truth.

The shoot is taking place in London, Rome, Berlin, Washington DC and Morocco.

Christine Hartland is producing and Mark Watson-Mitchell is executive producing.
